Did You Know

We have been making quality Corvette reproductions since 1979 introducing hundreds of different parts to both amateur restorers and professional shops. I personally developed these parts using our own tooling. We were assisted by actual factory blueprints supplemented with original samples.

In the early 1980's we became aware of one Corvette wholesale account who was using our research to simply copy the parts we released. It happened in a fortunate manner. In our business relationship with Wittek, their sales rep named Debbie (not my wife) had provided us such excellent service that I had sent her a small box of candy.

Some time later Debbie actually called me and stated that Tim Pope from Zip called them and wanted to order everthing that we had ordered. Of her own volition she actually delayed and screwed up that PO. Apparently the candy did the trick. And from that point forwards we knew that Zip was merely copying our lead. After this we would intentionally mislead them at any opportunity.

We do everything possible to keep our prices low and competitive, even when we must compete with a cheaper incomplete or inferior Zip's cheap product. We Recycle shipping cartons that are sturdy and re useable. We do not use cartons that are custom print with our logo. They cost more and you discard them. We purchase Overruns of new cartons from corrugated brokers. They cost less, are brand new but have someone else's logo on the box.

Did you ever notice the catalog printed by the World's Largest Auto Parts Mail Order Supplier? Hint: check out a JC Whitney™ catalog. We also use the same inexpensive Black and White. Who do you think really pays for those full color slick glossy catalogs? However our catalogs are extravagant in other ways.

We include over 1,000 unique illustrations of parts keyed to clear concise descriptions. Others don't.

Tear their cover off, and most other catalogs all look the same. There isn't 10 cents difference between them, because they all use the same inaccurate generic part manual pictures copied from each other.

Other suppliers like our pictures so much, we have repeatedly caught them using them without any permission. After politely requesting they refrain from copying our material, we were forced to formally and legally go after these unauthorized users. The legal expenses to halt them has never been a source of positive income, but remains an additional expense.

Zip brazenly took our packaging labels, instruction sheets and deleted our logo, then made photo copies and passed them off as theirs. Zip claimed they did this so for their customers "benefit". However, a US Federal District Court Judge, the Honorable Peter C. Dorsey saw through their ruse and stated that Zip violated Federal Law, the Lanham Act which prohibits Falsely labeling a parts Origin. Actually the labeled parts were ours.

We filed suit against Zip in U.S. Federal Court for violating Federal Law. Judge Dorsey stated that their re-packaging and replacing of our logo with theirs was "compelling circumstantial evidence of their bad faith" in falsely designating the origin of part, if not all of these kits. During January 1998, Zip Products and it's president David Walker were found Guilty in a Federal District Court jury trial and fined. Zip paid us $70,000, but it did not cover our actual expenses.

Our catalogs are free with any order and $4. to new customers. We guarantee: if you pre-paid $4. for our catalog and it is not the best - mail it back for a full $4. refund.

We do not have a carpeted, designer furnished chrome and glass showroom. We are basically a mail order supplier and operate a warehouse, office, shipping & receiving department and manufacturing facilities. No frills, mahogany or teak desks. No zip.
